Iowa and Kansas. These were not mere calls of ceremony, but political confer ences, important to those engaged in them, and to the entire country. The first of these consultations with the presidential nominee was that of the demomitional campaign committee, which represented by Messrs, Harrity, son, Gorman, Sheehan, Brice, Whit-

Smalley and Quincy. All the memof the committee were present with exception of Senator Ransom, who campaigning in North Carolina, and essman Cable, of Illinois, and Wall. sconsin, who are busy with the manment of the affairs of the western campaign committee were accom panied by ex-Senator James B. Eustis, Louisiana. This consultation, which asted about two hours, was followed by a conference with the members of the te committee of the state of New York. It this there were present, on behalf of he state organization, the following state ommitteemen: Messrs. Charles Barnum, Charles M. Preston, Samuel J. Tilden, Edward Murphy, Jr., James H. Manning, James Talmadge, Daniel G. Griffin, Charles Dunston, John Flannigan, Alexander C. Eustis, Patrick Maloney, John M. Wiley, Augustus Schen, Richard Crooker and W. Bourke Cockrane.

The Iowa Delegation. The Iowa delegation which consulted with the presidential nominee was com-posed of Charles D. Fuller, chairman of the state committee; William McIver, chairman of the state league of democratic clubs; Henry Stivers, editor of The Des-Moines Leader, and Colonel S. H. Mallory. Their visit was followed by that of General Charles W. Blair, national committeeman from the state of Kansus, and Colonel W. C. Jones, chairman of the Kansas state committee, who also conferred for some time with Mr. Cleveland. Matters pertaining to the state campaign were discussed, chief among which was the proposed third ticket to be placed in the field by New York city and the county democrats. Pressure was brought to bear on Mr. Cleveland to use his influence in discountenancing the movement. Grace Interviewed. Mr. Grace remained with Mr. Cleveland over an hour today and after the conference he said: "I had a long talk with him on the political situation throughout the country. He told me his prospects of elec-tion were splendid, judging from the re-ports he had received. "Did you discuss the question of an in

On his second appearance, Mr. Croker was questioned regarding the nature of his hurried visit. He replied that he had an inportant matter to be given out, but he wished first to get Mr. Cieveland's permission before announcing it. When asked if he had received the required permission he replied that he could say nothing about it at present. He was also asked if it has reference to any action taken by the state committee. This Mr. Croker refused either to affirm or deny.

After leaving the hotel he met Murphy and Sheehan, and it was reported that Senator fill was also at the conference. Late in the evening a committe of six, representing the state lagte of democratic clubs, saw

Mr. Cleveland, it is expected, will remain in the city until Wednesday or Phursday. He will probably deliver an address at the convention of national democratic clubs in the Academy of Music Tuesday evening, although no definite arrangement to the effect has been made so far. It is evidently the intention of Whitney and Griffin to bring Hill and Cleveland together during their present stay in the city.

Schator Hill leaves for the south some time rest week and the present is perhaps the best chance that will offer for this event.

The conduct of the effort will undoubtedly be made, perhaps tomorrow, to have Grace declare just what he means. If he insists on mining a third ticket, it is not likely he will receive much countenance from the committee and will besides earn the undying enmity of Tammany hall. Hetween the jatter organization and Grace, however, there is not much by lost.

PROPHET PLEDGER

Talks About a Trade Made Down in Georgia.

BILL SAYS NORTHEN WILL BE ELECTED

But Intimates There Will Be Surprise in November.

A DEAL WHICH WILL CHANGE THINGS He Says, and That Cleveland May Be Defeated in Georgia-A Lot of Other Idle Talk.

Washington, September 30 .- (Special.) Pledger, the Georgia negro politician, was here today on his way to New York, where he goes to receive his speaking assignments from the republican national committee for the campaign. Pledger had a long interview with Secretary Foster, this afternoon, with reference to Georgia. Foster is running the political end of the Harrison administration, and Pledger's talk with him no doubt bore largely upon the proposed fusion of the third party and republican electoral ticket.

"I think Mr. Northen will be re-elected governor," said Pledger, to The Constitution correspondent, "by 40,000 majority. He ought to be re-elected from the standpoint of race, as the colored men in Georgia have fared better under his administration than under any government since they were freed. Peek, the third party candidate, has no claims upon the good will of the colored men and I do not think he will get many votes from them. In the congressional elections, I think, however," Pledger continued, "the colored men will support the third party candidates since Colonel Buck issued his circular. It will help the republican party, nationally speaking, to defeat as many of the democratic congressional candidates as possible and not interfere with the negro locally in Georgia."

About the national ticket in Georgia Pledger refused to say much, but he intimated that a great surprise was in store for the democrats which might result in the loss of the state to Cleveland. It is now well understood that the republican national committee has engineered a deal with the third party leaders in Georgia, which will result within the next ten days in the withdrawal of both the third party and republican electoral tickets and the substitution of a fusion ticket made up of five third party men and five republicans. In this way the Harrison managers expect to capture five electoral votes in Georgia if the state can be carried by the fusion ticket. The third party people have been induced to make this deal through two considerations. Primarily it will strengthen their electoral ticket by rallying the black vote in Georgia to their standard and in the second place it will give them a whack at the republican corruption fund in New York. In addition to this the republican national committee has agreed to crowd the polling places with deputy United States marshals upon the application of the third party men and the negroes to the supervisors, in accordance with the law permiting such appointments without limit as to number where citizens under oath ask for them to prevent bloodshed and riot. The conspiracy is well planned and the republican managers believe it will be successful. It will practically mean bayonets at the polls in Georgia, November

They Will All Speak. The administration has thrown off the nask. At the outset of the campaign Harrison unctuously declared that the heads of the various governmental departments would take no active part in this national contest. For them to do so would be a violation of the spirit of the civil service law. Today it was announced that Secretary of the Interior Noble would leave for the west about the middle of October for the purpose of stumping Iowa and Kansas in particular, and the northwest in general. Pension Commissioner Green B. Raum-he of the savory record will leave for Illinois next week and spend the time between now and November 4th in speaking throughout Illinois. Assistant Attorney General Shields, a henchman of Law Partner Miller, is to levote his time and attention for the next five weeks to Indiana, chiefly in Judge Holman's district.

LILLIE JOHNSON'S CASE

Placed Under Bond Until Alice Mitchell Is

Released from the Asylum. Memphis, Tenn., September 30 .- In th Shelby county criminal court yesterday the case of Lillie Johnson, charged with being an accessory to the murder of Freda Ward by Alice Mitchell, was called. Miss John son's attorney asked for special venire from which to select a jury to try the case but the motion was overruled. In render-ing this decision, Judge Dubose said that Miss Johnson would not be placed or trial until Alice Mitchell had either been cured of insanity or pronounced an incura-ble lunatic. The case was ordered stricken from the docket and Miss Johnson was released on $10,000 bond until the asylunauthorities could be heard from. Letter received in this city from the supe of Bolivar insane asylum state Mitchell shows no symptoms of insanity, and will probably be discharged as cured before many months. As soon as she is released she will be arrested on an indictment for the murder of Freda Ward and ried jointly with Lillie Johnson.

AGAINST THE FUSION.

Stalwart Democrats of Kansas Declare For Topeka, Kan., September 30.—After a consultaton that lasted ten hours, the leaders of the stalwart democrats prepared a statement for publication this morning, declaring for Grover Cleveland and appoint ing a central committee of five to arrange preliminary details for a convention to be held here on October 7t. It has been virtually decided not to place a ticket in the field, but to turn down and forever squelch the old-time democratic leaders by defeating the combination ticket. The recalcitrants claim that they will bring 20,000 democrats to the polls who will vote for the fusion electors and who would otherwise remain at home. The democratic cor mittee will make no statement. MRS. HARRISON STILL IMPROVES.

THE FIGHT RENEWED

A Lively Row in Columbia-Rowe Shoots Frazier.

Columbia, S. C., September 30.-(Special.) In The Constitution dispatch of Wednesday night, recounting the difficulty between Mr. A. J. Rowe and ex-Judge Townsend at Bennettsville, that day, it was stated that more trouble was anticipated. Yesterday it developed. At the mayor's court Rowe was fined $100 for assaulting Townsend and as Rowe was going down the street, J. D. Frazier, Townsend's son-inlaw, attacked him. Frazier struck Rowe in the face; they grappled, both men fighting desperately. Finally Rowe drew his pistol and shot Frazier in the left side. Townsend and Rowe's two sons came up at this juncture and as they were drawing their pistole Sheriff Rodgers came on the scene, separated the parties and quelled what might have been a bloody riot. Eight or ten persons have been placed under peace bonds

Frazier is seriously wounded. Rowe has been committed to jail to await the result of Frazier's injuries. There is some excitement among the friends of the parfie and there is a possibility that the end is

WORKING TO SAVE LIFE,

Efforts to Rescue the Entroubled Miners in Michigan.

Ironwood, Mich., September 30.—All the evening and last night 2,000 miners employed in Norrie iron mine took turns at working in the relief party seeking to rescue the eleven men buried in No. 8 shaft by the fall of ground yesterday morning. Shifts were made every ten minutes and the men worked heroically. Their efforts were direct ed toward driving a new drift to fifth level where the men were supposed to be. Late last night signals were given by the relief party and answered by the entombed men by pounding on an iron pillar which extends from the surface to the chambers where the men are imprisoned, so it is certain some of them were alive at that time.

Scenes about the mouth of No. 8 shaft have been most harrowing. The wives, children and friends of the entombed men, waiting in heart-breaking suspense for news of their loved ones, have moved strong men to tears by their supplications. Abraham Thompson, one of the buried men, was rescued at 8:30 o'clock this morning. Some of the Members of the Advisory Board

OF THE STRIKERS AT HOMESTEAD

Arrested on Warrants Charging Them With Treason.

GAUSES A GREAT SENSATION,

And the Officers Hurried Their Prisoner off to Pittsburg-Excited Crowds at the Depot.

Homestead, Penn., September 30.-A great sensation was created here tonight by the arrest of a number of members of the advisory committee, of the Homestead strikers, for treason. Those arrested were Chairman Thomas J. Crawford, Wil-liam Raird Geogra Reland Leby D. liam Baird, George Ryland, John Dierken a thunderbolt to the strikers, they were so prisoners were chatting at the street corners, when they were taken. The officers were Detectives Mills and Fowl and Duputies Young, Brady, Devlin, Krept and Ward. It was late in the afternoon when the warrants based on information of Chief Justice Paxson, reached Homestead and were placed in the hands of the officers to serve. They started out at 9 o'clock, and first caught Crawford and Dierken, who were hurried to the provost guards tents. before the strikers had time to realize what was happening.

As the prisoners were speeded to the prison tents, an alarm was taken and many strikers hastened toward the guard, but were held back and denied all information. Indeed some of the prisoners did not know why they were arrested until safe behind the bayonets of the soldiers. It was intended first to keep the prisoners all night and huat for others, but through fear of an attempt at rescue they were taken to the city farm station, placed on a train and brought to Pittsburg at 11 o'clock and landed in jail.

At the station a crowd of 150 angry, if not surprised, men assembled with astonishing rapidity and their determined looks caused apprehension. Two deputies tried to keep them back, but by the time the train arrived they had almost surrounded the group of prisoners and officers. When the train pulled out a sullen jeer of defiance went up and Chairman Crawford

"They can prosecute us, but they can't make us go to work."

The information for treason upon which the men were arrested were made by County Detective Beltzhoover this afternoon before Chief Justice Paxson, of the supreme court of Pennsylvania. The petition charges High O'Donnell, Thomas J. Crawford, John McLuckie and thirty others, all members of the strikers' advisory committee, with treason. It states that the defendants, who are inhabitants and residents of the commonwealth of Pennslyvania, did arrange, prepare and levy war against the commonwealth of Pennslyvania, to the end that the constitution, law and authority were defied, resisted and subverted, and that said defendants on July 1st, with hundreds of others, armed and arrayed in a warlike manner, that is to say, with guns, revolvers, cannons, swords, knives and clubs, did unlawfully, maliciously and traitorously assemble together in the borough of Homestead in the commonwealth of Pennsylvania and then and there with force and arms did falsely and traitorously and in a hostile and worlike manner array themserves in insurrection and rebellion to the commonwealth of Pennsylvania contrary to the duty of allegiance and fidelity of said Chief Justice Paxson at once pushed the warrants for the arrest of the accused and officers were dispatched by the sheriff to Homestead to serve them. The action of the county athorities was entirely unexpected and carried consternation into the camp of the strikers. This is the first time in the history of the state that any resident has benn charged with trenson agoinst against the commonwealth and the en-trance of the cases will be watched with interest. A BRAVE MARINE aved the Steamship Philapelphia When Fort Henry Was Stormed.

New York, September, 30.—The arrival of the United States steamer Philadelphia at this port has brought to light a number of statements regarding the recent accident on board the vessel while storming Fort Henry near Baltimore. It now appears the Times will say, that the accident came within an ace of blowing up the ship and its entire complements. When the explo sion took place the chute leading to the magazine was open and charges of powder were in the course of passage to the men on deck. This chute lies immediately in rear of the breech of a gun, and so close that particles of the ignited powder driven down the chute and into the zine proper. The powder division was in charge of Lieutenant Tremont who did all ne could to suppress the disorder cent resulted but without avail. The men com posing the power division, with only two exceptions fled precipitately. Fortunately there was no explosion as the only powder that ignited was not confined. Before if that ignited was not confined. could reach the copper cases of projectile stored on all sides Lieutenant Fremont and the faithful two who remained extin guished the fire with buckets of water.

It happened that when the explosion oc curred abag of prismatic powder, used in a six inch gun, was lying on deck immedi-ately behind the breech and in direct line with the particles of barning powder and rags. This powder, or rather bag, that held it caught on the burning fragments and another explosion seemed imminent. At this juncture one of the men sprang forward and before the powder had been forward and before the powder had been reached by the flames he had thrown the whole affair overboard. The excitement and confusion of the moment may best be understood from the fact that the captain-went forward, grasped the man by the hand and assured him that he had saved the vessel from a dreadful accident.

A prominent naval officer in speaking of the matter yesterday said that the guns fired with blank cartridges as those on the Philadelphia were fired should he sponged after each shot.

While the season brings the usual shrinkage in the distribution of textile goods, the mills are nevertheless crowded with orders and the demand for products of iron, steel and leather has improved. Carrelton, Ga., September 30.—(Special.) Cyclone Davis struck Carrollton today and did his blowing, but Charles Adamson put him to flight, and it is doubtful whether he will ever be able to blow again. Mr. Davis arrived here at 12:45 o'clock and was driven direct to the courthouse. Judge W. C. Adamson came in on the same train and Hon. S. E. Grow and John H. W. Russell tranged for Davis to speak for one hour. rranged for Davis to speak for one hour ad a half, followed by Judge Adamson to hours, and then Davis close with a

Mr. Davis was introduced by John Russell, chairman of the people's party of Carroll county, and the tall Texan arose amid great applause by his followers present. Davis's speech was about the same as he has been making all over Georgia. He read has been making all over Georgia. The Chances for Circumventing a Previous Contract—A Preparatory School Would Be Well Patronised.

Athens, Ga., September 30.—(Special.)— The water bonds were voted by a good najority today.

But there is still a lot of stubborn plications staring the city in the face be-fore the water question can be definitely

The city of Athens has a contract with the Athens Water Company for a term of thirty years to supply the water used for public and private consumption. This contract the city claims has been broken by the Athens Water Company. The water company says that it has not been broken and will so into the contract the city claims to be the company and the contract the city of the contract to the contract the city of the contract the contr and will go into the courts praying for its completion by maturity. Of course the city is not able to own two systems of water-works, and the trouble with the old company will have to be settled before the new sys tem can be commenced.

If the courts should sustain the old water companies position the $125,000 bonds voted today will never be issued.

The Athens Water Company has recently reorganized under the style of the New York Water Company, limited, in order that if they should lose their case in the lower courts they can take it into the federal courts under the non-resident act governing foreign corporations.

In a case similar to this one the supreme ourt recently decided that the city could not be bound for thirty years except by a popular vote of the people. This decision, if it holds good in our case, will relieve the city of its responsibility. It is a very complicated case and will be stubbornly fought in the courts by both sides and during the in the courts by both sides, and during the time thus occupied the people will have to use bad water and not enough of that.

Here Is a Chance. There is nothing waterworks notwith-standing, that Athens needs as badly as a good preparatory school f r boys, who want to enter the university and are debarred on account of their deficiency in some par-ticular branch of the studies pursued by ticular branch of the studies pursued by the class they desire to enter.

There has been a number of cases of this kind in Athens recently. I know of one lady who moved here from Kentucky to educate her young son that after finding him deficient in mathematics and finding that there was no preparatory school in the city in which he could receive instruction in this branch of his studies she moved to Macon and put him in Mercer, on account of the preparatory department connected of the preparatory department connected with that institution.

There is an excellent field here for the establishment of a good preparatory school for boys by some competent and experienced teacher. Such a school would receive the hearty support and endorsement of every member of the faculty of the university, which fact alone would make its success certain. There is a small fortune for such a school in Athens.

It is more than likely that Steve Ryan will be given another opportunity to appear before the jury.

Certainly his attorneys who have managed the affairs of their client with wonderful acumen, will endeavor to get a hearing, and if another trial is granted, it will be a magnificent battle for his liberty.

Never before in the annals of Fulton county—and never perhaps in the history of American litigation has a case of similar magnitude been tried before a jury.

Not only has the testimony been remarkable but the skill and diligence which the attorneys have displayed on each side has made it a "battle royal" that will never be forgotten.

Maggie Meson Quarreled with Her Father and Left Home-Since Then She Has Not Been Heard From.

Rome, Ga., September 30.-(Special.)-A story of the disappearance of a young woman comes from Chattoga county.

About seven miles from Raccoon cotton mills lives a farmer named John Mason.

Last May he quarrelled with his daughter Maggie, a young woman of nineteen years of age. The young lady left home and ter residing with various families in the community married an old man named Sims. Sims had the reputation of being a very bad man. He was about seventy years of age and had been quite rough all of his life.

After the marriage he and his young wife went to live in another community From this place several weeks ago young wife disappeared. The old eemed to feel no concern about her departure and has, so the story goes, made no effort to find out her whereabouts. family of the girl has become alarmed and dilligent inquiry about her but can find out nothing whatever.

The only intelligence they have ever been able to get was a vague story from a ne-gro who knew her and said he had seen her on the train going towards Decatur,

The circumstances surrounding her disappearance and the old man's indifference have led the people of the community to suspect foul play. It is thought that the old man has had a hand in putting her out of the way. Later developments may bring out a sensational murder story. Laid to Rest.

Mrs. Fannie Dent Jones, daughter of the late Major John H. Dent, and sister of Mrs. J. H. Henley, was buried this morning from St. Peter's church. She died after a two weeks illness.

The people's party leaders seem to fear that they will not get their dues in the coming elections. And they have asked that the managers be divided—half democrats and half third party.

Mr. G. W. Fleetwood, chairman of the third party executive committee of Floyd, has had a conference with Hon. Halsted Smith, chairman of the democratic executive committee, and asked that the managers and clerks be selected from both parties. Mr. Smith told him that he had never known an election to be imprenent. never known an election to be improperly managed in Floyd county, but said he was willing to make any arrangement that would demonstrate its fairness after the election was held. An agreement was then drawn up and signed by both. Here is the agreement:

Beresford rose slowly from his chair and walked to the clerk's desk. He trembled as one about to swoon. He clutched the alling and attempted to speak. His lips coved. Great tears rolled down his pale teeks and he sobbed like a child. He said he was not guilty of forgery, that he had been bitterly persecuted by his brother-in-law, Parr, of New York, who held the power of attorney over his wife's property, begged the court to allow a few days in which to arrange an peal to the federal courts, as he was sure could get a reversal of judgment. He several times and made a great effort to control himself. The scene was an extremely touching one and even Judge Henry was visibly affected.

Beresford ceased speaking and Judge fenry in a voice which clearly betrayed motion asked him if he had nothing more to ay. The judge then told Beresford that thile it might be an anomaly to give way human sympathy, yet he had been touch-d with pity for the defendant, and his sentence would be mitigated from what he had intended. The statute calls for from atended to give Beresford the full limit of be statute, but had changed his mind. He said it was a painful duty to be called upon to pass sentence on a man of such intennli-gence and accomplishments.

"You show," said the judge, "that you have somewhere enjoyed the very best of circumstances and yet you have used all of your enviable gifts against the interests of society."

The judge then leaned back in his chair, and looking Beresford squarely in the eyes, said:

"It is ordered and adjudged by this court, that you be sent to the penitentiary of this state and there confined at hard labor for six years and then be discharged."

Beresford had ceased weeping when the judge commenced to talk, and stood as rigid as a statue and he bit his lips vigorously but did not change his position until Deputy Sheriff Dellas Turner took hold of his arm and made him sit. He was carried back to his cell where he will remain until Principal Keeper Jones sends a guard for him. He will then be sent to some of the convict camps of the state. Under the law of Georgia to a sentence to penal servitude for more than two years gives a divorce and it seemed to grieve Beresford much that his wife would soon be Miss Maud Lilenthal again.

C. E. James a gentlemanly and refined looking man of about thirty years of age, was under arrest in Atlanta for several hours yesterday, suspected of being guilty of robbing the Southern Express Company at Jacksonville, Fla., of $4,500.

A chain of circumstances, and the facts that he bore the name of the real express robber caused Mr. James's arrest. His proved to be a case of mistaken identity however and after being held some hours he was allowed to go, the officer having become convinced that he was the wrong man.

A reward of $500 was offered for his capture.

About four weeks ago Mr. C. E. James went to Marietta. He was a stranger there, and wanted work. He was a quiet sort of man, and people wondered why he should come to Marietta to live.

Sheriff McLain had received a description of A. A. James the Jacksonville express robber, and he began to suspect C. E. James of being the man. He watched him carefully, and being naturally suspicious, he thought that James acted strangely. He and Sheriff Kitchen of Cherokee county began to do some detective work on the case. A day or so ago they decided that the circumstances pointing to C. E. James as the guilty man were strong enough to warrent his arrest. Accordingly he was placed under arrest.

The two sheriffs were not at all satisfied as to the identity of their prisoner and yesterday they decided to bring him to Atlanta and let the city detectives here talk with him, and see if they could find anything that would convince them of James's guilt.

anything that would convince them of James's guilt.

Yesterday morning they brought their prisoner to Atlanta and carried him to Chief of Detective Wright's office.

James appeared frank and open and offered the detectives all the assistance he could render in discovering his identity.

After talking with James for a few minnets, Captain Wright became convinced that he was not the Jacksonville robber, and he so told Sheriffs McLain and Kitchen. They then decided to release Mr. James, which they did.

Mr. James returned to Marietta, where he will try to find work. One of the circumstances that caused his arrest were letters in his pocket, received from his mother at different places in the south, in which money had evidently been inclosed.

STATE OF EORGIA, FULTON COUNTY. To the Superior Court of Said County.—The petition of L. D. Musgrove, J. C. Musgrove, R. W. Long and Morris Brandon shows that they wish to be incorporated for a period of twenty years with the privilege of renewal at the end of that time under the corporate name of Corona Coal Company. The object of said corporation will be pecuniary gain to its stock-holders and its particular business will be buying, selling and dealing in coal, coke, wood and other material and doing a general trading business in live stock and any and all kinds of merchandise, in buying and selling real estate, loaning money on any security whatever, and in manufacturing any and all kinds of manufactured goods. Its capital stock will be $10,000 divided into shares of $100 each, 10 per cent of which shall be paid in, but it desires the privilege of increasing the same at any time to any sum not exceeding $50,000. The principal office of said corporation will be in the city of Atlanta, Ga. Wherefore petitioners pray that an order may be granted incorporating them as aforesaid, with the rights and powers aforesaid and with all powers common to all corporations, such as those specified in section 1679 of the code of Georgia published in the year 1882, and petitioners will ever pray, etc. etc.

The interest-bearing debt of the Unites of on July 1, 1880, was $1,723,903,100 on August 31, 1892, the total interesting debt aggregated but $585,031,080—skrinkage of the basis upon which has a bank notes are based. It is evidentiff government bonds continue to be paid tional bank notes are based. It is evident that if government bonds continue to be paid off at anything like the rate of the last twelve years there will soon be none of them left to base the notes upon. It will be borne in mind that the government's obligations are not all of a kind to be available for the use of the national banks. At the close of August last, for example, there was a government debt of $379,638,574 that bore no interest. There were in the hands of the public certificates and treasury notes to the amount of $615,455,530, against which the government had in its vaults, as an offset, cash to the equal amount. Of the total liabilities of the government, aggregating $1,582,681,949, but $585,031,080, as already stated, bears interest and is, therefore, of a character to be desired by banks as a basis for circulation.

Under the circumstances, Mr. Webster's plea for state banks would be a better one today than when he made it more than today than when he made it more than forty years ago. There is less danger of wild cat banks since the states have all settled down under regular business methods, and legislative safeguards and inspection will make the banks perfectly secure and trustworthy. For interstate business greenbacks, federal treasury notes, etc., will answer, while state banks will be very useful within the states, supplying a much-needed local currency Webster's idea of a currency partly na tional and partly local suits this vast country exactly, and meets the requirements of both the money centers and the remote rural districts.

Ham's "Snollygosters."

The New York Sun in the course of an editorial review of a recent sketch in these columns, dealing with Colonel H. W. J. Ham and his campaign stories or the stump, confesses that when the colonel mentions the "snollygosters" who are among the foes of the democracy, it fails to catch on. Our contemporary says: We confess ourselves unable to understand what a "snollygoster" is unless it is a mugwump in jeans. All the same, we congratulate this young man from the mountains upon his efforts to smash the populist snollygosters and all other sons of guns. Hooray for the Cracker Chancer, and may his colthe Cracker Chaucer, and may his col ection of stories divert and convince the rowd. No force bill; no negro domination! Perhaps Editor Dana is to be congratulated upon his good fortune in not running against a snollygoster. With his keep insight he sniffs him from afar, and without any further information on the subject, he vigorously applauds Colonel Ham's picturesque denunciation of the creature, and expresses the hope that he will be smashed.

Down here in Georgia we know the snollygosters only too well. They are always hanging on to the skirts of our enemies, and all good democrats hate them as they do "pizen." There are snollygosters in other states besides Georgia, but they have succeeded in disguising themselves under other names, and their real character is not thoroughly understood. Our "Cracker Chaucer," as The Sun calls Colonel Ham, talks to his hearers in the plain English of the Elizibethan era. He calls a spade a spade and a snollygoster a snollygoster. And the colonel is dead right. If a snollygoster is not a snollygoster, what is he?

Bring Out the Vote!

Only three more days, not counting Sunday, stand between us and the state

Next Wednesday the democratic host of Georgia will meet and vanguish the third party and its allies at the polls. We want our democratic friends to ap preciate the importance of carrying this election by a tremendous majority.

As the only October state, Georgia's acsmall democratic majority will discourage our friends at a distance and make the opposition exultant. We are asking for a big majority be cause we have the votes, and we do not want them to be thrown away at such a time. The stay-at-home class is too large, and it grows larger every year. These confident and apathetic citizens should be appealed to by their neighbors to come out next Wednesday.

Go to the polls and vote the democratic ticket. There will be nothing else for you to do on that day. Business will be suspended everywhere in the state, and your old friends and neighbors will be proud to see you come marching up to the polls to swell their majority.

If you can walk or ride, turn out and vote! We want 50,000 majority, and we want you in it!

A Newspaper's Good Work. Editor Shepard, of The New York Mail and Express, has some of the best intentions and the worst methods that a man could have. In his proper field of philanthropy he is a godly worker, but in politics he is the ungodliest blatherskite that ever quoted scripture.

It is hard to judge such a bundle of contradictions, inconsistencies and whims, but it must be admitted that Editor Shepard has his good points, and he should receive full credit for them. In the midst of the presidential campaign he turns aside from his furious assaults upon the solid south to engage in a crusade against John Barleycorn. He attacks the enemy in a novel way. Instead of adopting the ordinary prohibition methods, he has opened in The Mail and Express building a branch of a new liquor cure establishment where patients are treated free of charge. Fifty lady commissioners aid the good work by personally visiting the homes of the victims of intemperance, where they notify wives that their husbands can be cured free of cost. The enterprise is meeting with great success, and its charitable promoter feels confident that in the course of time he will turn New York

into a sober city. It goes without saying that Editor Shepard is doing more good in this work of reform than he can ever hope to accomplish in his unprovoked and unwise war fare upon the solid south. Within the past few days, it is said, discreet and skillful corruption agents have been summoned from various close and doubtful states to the national republican headquarters, and it is now under stood that the party in power is prepared to buy the presidency as it has bought it

Democrats everywhere should get ready to meet and baffle the schemes of these secret agents. The boodlers should be spotted, and met by vigilant democrats at every turn. The people are in no mood to be cheated out of the presidency, and the agents who sneak about over the country with republican boodle in their pockets will have a hard road to travel.

In the course of the next few days these fellows will begin their work. Some of them are already known, and the others will soon be located, Watch for themshadow them-see to it that they make no bargains, or, if they do, that they fail to receive the goods!

Do Not Be Deceived. It will be remembered that one of Dickens's characters was said to be "divilish sly." But "Joey B." was straightforward in his methods compared with the bosses who are running the present republican campaign. They played their leading trump in Peck's report, which was designed to show that the McKinley tariff was helpful to wage-workers and a bles sing to the country at large. This humbug has had its day. Since Hill's exposure of its mendacity in his great Brookyn speech the bubble has burst.

They are now making an ingenious effort to sidetrack the force bill plank in their party platform. Mr. Benjamin Harrison, who erstwhile made the welkin ring with fiery denunciations of the solid south for its wicked Suppression of the negro vote-now, like Bottom, the Weaver, "roars you as gently as a sucking He even ventures to suggest that there is a faint hope that the states may be trusted for the proper adjustment of this knotty question. It is coincident that the man of the white house is getting shaky on that burning issue But let not the southern people be deceived. The old federal liver is still attired for rebel gore and is not less inerested on negro supremacy than during he dark reconstruction days.

Just now they are working for the fusion policy, affecting great sympathy for the persecuted and deeply injured Kolb and the amiable and much abused Tom Watson. By a coalition as infamous as the union between Blifil and Black George they propose to break up the solidarity of the democratic south. If that marble statue which stands under the dome o the state capitol could wake to life how it would scourge these political harlots as he once lashed the apostate Virginian in the national senate chamber! If that bronze statue on Marietta street could speak, how it would burn and blister the reprobates who seek to restore the rule of carpet baggers and scallawags!

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Max Adeler, who years ago was one of America's leading "funny men," has since been resting himself writing tariff articles, and a joint debate between him and Colonel McClure, of Philadelphia, is promised. Max Adeler as Charles Heber Clark is a foeman worthy of anybody's steel.

An intellectual amusement recently devised n Boston consists of writing a capital D on a sheet of paper while standing at a table, and trying to make the right foot swing in and trying to make the right foot swing in the opposite direction from that which the pencil is following on the paper. No one, so far as heard from, has been able to perform the feat. You get your foot swinging nicely in the opposite direction from that in which you know you are going to make the big loop of the D, and firmly resolve that you will keep it, going the same way while you are writing; but as soon as you get started on the letter. but as soon as you get started on the letter

Colonel James C. Dunlap, our only original "Uncle Jimmy," has engaged DeGive's opera house for the night of October 10th, when he will deliver his famous Piedmont lecture. The colonel no introduction to the public. His eloquence and wit have an innotoriety and the opera house pit to speaks.

The lecture will deal with the material, intellectual and spiritual resources are the Piedomnt region, payed the lecturer's space and xhaustable fund of reminiscence and an ecdote will make it sparkle with good things from first to last. As a rhetorician he has the rare faculty of filling surrounding space with a sonorous cataclysm of diction, ex-hilarating with the exuberence of the tropical imagination behind it, and bewilering all with the abnormal celerity of dialectical ratiocination which plays like summer lightning along the wings of his eaping, charging sentences.

Uncle Jimmy is one of our pioneers, and old and young are familiar with his wit and wisdom. He has legions of friends who delight in his bright talk, and he i one of the most widely quoted men in this bailiwick. His Piedmont lecture will be a rare treat to all lovers of the good, old times, and it will be instructive as well as entertaining, and will make the Piedmontese prouder than ever of their beautiful country and the brave men and fair women the have made it blossom as the rose-

Mr. Smith has been one of the most earn-

"There is no longer any doubt of Major Black's election," said he last night. "Richmond county will give him 5,000 majority. Mr. Watson will carry a majority of the country counties, but his majorities in those he carries will not reach his predicted fig-ures by any means. Perhaps, he will come down to Augusta with 2,500 or 3,000 majority, but Richmond's majority for Major Black will overcome it and give the democrats a majority of more than 2,000 in the district.

Charley Branan sees a great deal of polities in his commercial travels over the state, and he tells of many amusing things that fall under his notice.
"I never saw anything like it," said he.

You have no idea to what extent this political excitement has gone. Families are divided, brothers have quarreled and all kinds of difficulties have grown out of it. But one of the funniest things I have seen I was driving through the country to reach a customer of mine, when I passed a church. Posted up all over the yard in front of the church were boards bearing the notice: Nobody allowed to talk politics on the church ground.' That's a church after my own heart.'

Captain J. W. Morrow, the efficient sheriff of Fulton county, is still confined to his home, but his physician reports that he is gradually improving, and thinks that it will ot be many days before he can return to his business.

In his absence the duties of his office are being carefully watched by his very capable force of assistants and the work is characterized by the same accommodating politeness which has made the present administration so strong with the people.

It looks as if the Ryan case will come be fore a jury, and if it does, the people will be glad to know that the litigation which has been going on for so long will be definitely

Mr. Ryan's attorney's will file a bill of exceptions, claiming errors of fact in certain features of the auditor's report. If this is sustained, the case will go to a jury for trial, the law giving that right if a charge of errors in fact, in distinction from errors of law, is sustained.

If the case goes before a jury the result of the trial will be watched with exceeding interest, not only in Georgia, but throughout the country, and it will become one of the most important cases that has ever been tried in Atlanta, not only in magnitude, but in the importance of the principles at issue Mr. Ryan's attorneys are endeavoring to bring the matter before a jury, and if Judge Clarke allows them to do so, it will proba-bly not be many weeks before the trial in mder way.

The Barnesville Gazette proposes Hon. James Blount for governor two years heace. It says: "We have long been an admirer of the Hon. James H. Blount, the peerless gentleman, sterling democrat and able statesman, who has, with such distinguished ability and unswerving integrity represented the sixth Georgia district in the national nouse of representatives for the past twenty years, but this admiration is greatly increased now, when he is contrasted with the many small men, who are now parading themselves throughout Georgia as leaders of the people. He has great reason to be proad of his record during the pust twenty years, and it has been such, that when he comes into Pike county he will be among his warmest friends and supporters. "As we have stated before several times, we hope to see him, at no very distant date, in the gubernatorial chair and we believe that it will be our pleasure to see him put there by the people of the state to whom he has rendered such valuable services."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE,

A Democratic Tip.

Editor Constitution:—It may be well to quote just at this juncture an expression of President Cleveland's, in his recent democratic letter of acceptance, concerning the right of the property holders in the manage ment of their business. Listen to the words of ex-President Cleveland:

"The protection of the people in the exuse and enjoyment of their property and earnings concededly constitutes the especial purpose and mission of our free government. This design is so interwoven with the stucture of our plan of rule that a fail to protect a citizen in such use or enjoyment, or their justifiable diminution by the govern-ment itself, is a betrayal of the people's trust. The above should meet the endorsement of every laboring organization in the Honest labor does not seek to go hand in hand with anarchy and destroy business enterprise It seeks to build up by the mufual coopera tion of capital and labor to benefit each. The labor organization that defies the cardina on which all labor organizations should be founded-arbitration-is an enemy to the cause of labor. The laboring men of Atlanta note with great deal of interest the open stand that The Constitution has made in favor of arbitration and we endorse every word that it has said honest labor can ask no more, and agitators an force no more, so long as there is any conservatism left in the public, either among the laboring men or business men.

The Aldermanic Race.

Editor Constitution—John Stephens is a candidate for alderman at large. He lives in the center of the fourth ward and is a fair repdidate for alderman at large. He lives in the center of the fourth ward and is a fair representative of the people on the north side, as well as of the whole city. He has the necessary ability and would fill the position with credit to himself and to the advantage of the people. Mr. Stephens is not connected with any land syndicate, nor with any street railroad company, although he was the principal factor in the building of the Gate City Street railroad, in order to develop and improve the eastern part of the city. When he did that he sold out his street railroad, astisfied to lose what he had put into it and give the benefit to the people. Mr. Stephens is not a director in any bank, hence will not want to trade off any offices in order to secure the city deposits for his bank.

Mr. Stephens has lived on Jackson street for twenty-six years, having built the first house that was erected on that street after the war—in 1866—and is the only man on that street, or in that section, who has been there continuously since that time. Hence he may be called the founder of Jackson street, as he named it, the old name of it being North street. Mr. Stephens is not connected with any ring or clique. He stands independent—ready to do justice to all and grain special favors to none, and he is going to be elected alderman for the north side in the coming election.

Mr. George Gilmore, an enterprising and successful farmer, near Sandersville, has commenced the cultivation of it. He is raising high bred trotting horses. This pea, in connection with his grain crop, is a valuable accession to his stock raising.

The distinguishing and valuable quality of the pea is its hardiness—its ability to lie in the ground in the winter and grow luxuriantly the next summer.

One or two bushels of the pea to the acre sowed in the winter with the grain—when the grain is cut the succeeding spring will be up sufficiently to cover, shade and fertilize the land through the summer, make a crop of peas for the stock in the fall, always leaving on the land a sufficiency of the peas to reseed on the land a sufficiency of the pens to reseed it and leaving the land in good heart for another grain crop. So, as the pen reseeds itself, it needs only to be sowed the first year

The girls spent night before last in a room at the police station, and yesterday morning Chier of Police Connolly turned them over to Mrs. Neison and Mrs. Brittan to be taken care of as the ladies thought best. During the day, the hades arranged for the girls to spend a few days with an aged couple in the city, and they were sent there until provision can be made for them.

It is the desire of the girls to be sent to a home for fallen girls, and the ladies who have charge of them intend to send them to the Home of the Good Shepherd in Brooklyn, where so many penitent Magdalens have been sent for rescue. The two girls are thoroughly in earnest in their desire to do better, and if given a chance they will reform.

Chief Connolly has taken great interest in the cases of the two girls, and will do all he can to get them sent to the convent. In all his wide and varied experiences he says that he has never before met with a case where a faller, women resolved of her self to do better. "Such cases," he said, "should be given every encouragement—every help."

Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Brittan canno send the girls away until they get the necessary funds to do so. They think the case is one deserving of help from the public, and the only way they have to raise the money to send the penitent young women to the place where they can be sur-rounded with good influences is to appeal to the generosity of Atlanta's business men. They feel sure that a helping hand will not be denied the poor unfortunates, conscience stricken, remorseful, sorrowful, and truly penitent girls, who ask only to be allowed a refuge from the world that will give them

The trip from Atlanta to Portland, took up nearly a week. Colonel Goodwin and party lett here on September 9th, and a prived at Portland September 17th, having made two stops of twelve hours each, one at Kansas City, and one at Salt Lake City. At Kansas City he met with hundreds of Odd Fellows from the east going to Portland, and traveled the remaining 2,000 miles in a solid train made up for the Odd Fellows. Portland, a growing city of about Atlanta's size, had fully 10,000 strangers within her gates, all there to attend the Sovereign Lodge, which represents 721,000 Odd Fellows in the United States and British North America.

The grand lodge was in session one week, the daily session being held in Arion hall, a splendid edifice. A great many things of general interest to Odd Fellows were acted upon. One matter of interest was discussed at length. It was the matter of changing the minimum age for receiving members into the order from twentyone to eighteen years. The change received more than half the votes of the lodge, but was lost upon failing to get the requisite three fourths.

fell in love, and whose sympathy she retained to the end. She sang sweetly and her songs were encored. She danced a few minutes and repetitions of her pretty, graceful steps were demanded several times.

In the supporting company are such well known actors as Frazer Coulter, Robert McNair, Thaddeus Shine and George C. Boniface. Dan Dooley and Pnddy Doonan enacted by Mr. Shine and Mr. McNair, were amusing characters. Dooley is not a desperate villain at all, but would be a suspicious party in any community. He did not think it anything very wrong to purion papers from the chapel, and the attempt furnished a laughable scene. A little scheme of Doonan's to work an echotrick on tourists is not a pure invention of the playwright's for travelers have had feason to suspect that they were victimized in just such a way. What promised to be a fight between the two worthies struck the audience as being typical of the land of the shillaleh.

Miss Thorne is an actress of a Mility and the greater part of the supporting members are unusually strong. Their dress is correct and picturesque. The scenic effects deserve tha highest commendation. The pictures of the lower and middle lakes, of brickeen bridge and of the landscape near Ross castle, with the ruins of the monastry in the distance were so fine that the audience applauded.

"Killamery" will be given at a matine to day and again tonight.

In that convention Hon. W. A. Pledger made a speech in favor of the republicans putting out a state ticket, on the ground that the white people were divided, and he thought under such circumstances the republicans had a chance to win in the state election.

Under the advice of Mr. A. E. Buck, the convention decided not to put out a state ticket, but to leave every member of the republican party free to vote for whom he pleased, as between the candidates of the third party and the democratic party.

The convention refused to endorse either one of these parties, because they did not think it right to direct the republican people how to vote when they had no candidates in the field. As the state convention took this course, we cannot understand why it is that Mr. Buck now proposes to take a different course.

No republican ought to be controlled by Mr. Buck where there is no republican ticket in the field. We are free to vote for whom we please, and for our part we expect to do this and to advise our people to do it. As the republican state convention left every man free to vote as he pleased, we prefer in the campaign to follow the plan mapped out by Hon. W. A. Pledger, and vote for Governor W. J. Northen.

This forever settles it that the republicans of Georgia feel themselves fully capable of taking care of themselves when they get into a convention hall, and that they will not submit to being bossed by any one man. Speaking of Colonel's Buck's behavior in thus respect a prominent democrat at headquarters yesterday was heard to remark: quarters yesterday was heard to remark:

Atlanta, Ga., September 29.—Hon. M. D. Irwin, Chairman People's Party Executive Committee, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: Yours of the 13th Instant came duly to hand. I have been absent so much from democratic headquarters that while there my entire time has been required to attend to such pressing matters as come properly within the bounds of my authority as chairman of the state democratic executive committee. I have, therefore, been compelled to delay attending to those matters which do not come within the purview of my powers as a party official.

Your letter implies, if it does not actually charge that there is a probability of fraud being committed in the approaching election. There is nothing in the history of the state nor in the character of our people to justify such a charge. It is unwarranted and untrue, and in defense of the people of the state I repel your insinuation.

The laws of Georgia regulating elections have long been of force, and provide for the holding of elections so openly that any man who feels an interest may look on and see very ballot cast and counted. These laws are ample to protect the voter and the candidate.

W. Y. ATKINSON,

General Feld the third party nomine for the vice presidency who was in Georgic stumping the state recently has some special public career in Virginia, if statement from the secretary of the democratic committee of that state is worth anything. In a letter to Chairman Atkinson he writes that General Field went out of the democratic party with quite a per-sonal leaning to General Mahone and sympathized much with the readjuster movement when it was defested by his par-ty in seeking public office. The letter further contain these state-ments.

The letter further contain these statements:

In 1885, the democrats resumed control of the state and an examination was made into the accounts of the readjuster officers, and it was alscovered that the attorney general, under the Mahone rule, had appropriated fees to some extent that he was not entitled to, and it was learned that General Field, under the advice of and with the information he got from the readjuster attorney general, made the same cialin upon the readjuster auditor and obtained similar payment to those made to the readjuster attorney general.

Suit was brought against Field for the amount thus obtained by him. Judgment went against the suit in the lower court, and an appeal was made to the court of appeals in this state, and that court gave judgment against Field for the amount claimed by the state, which was, I think, some fourteen or affeen hundred dollars; that judgment still stands unsatisfied.

From that hour I do not think General Field, as he is usually called, has ever been in sympathy with the democratic party. He was never a popular man before the people, and a few years ago, say some five or six years, he ran for the nomination for the senate in this district, where he lives, and was badly defeated by a young gentleman of this town. All these things conspired to increase his antipathy to his old party. He is not a man of even more than ordinary ability, and in his own immediate neighborhood, has no infuence whatever. I do not believe that at his precinct, outside of his own vote, that there will be half a dozen people who will vote for his ticket.

This is as near as I can give the history of this gentleman. H. SHEPPERD, Secretary. This is as near as I can give the history of his gentleman. 'H. SHEPPERD, Secretary.

The residence of Mr. J. B. English, in Vineville, was destroyed by fire last night about 12 o'cleck.

The icss will amount to about ten thousand or twelve thousand dollars with only $6.500 insurance. The insurance was placed with the Southern Mutual. The fire originated in the kitchen, which was attached to the house, and fanned by a strong wind, it rapidly spread. It was utterly impossible to do anything to stay the rush of the fire, and all that could be done was to save a portion of the furniture. A quantity of valuable property, such as pictures and books was, however, destroyed. Nearly all the clothing in the house was destroyed, and in less than an hour the house was reduced to ashes. This was once the home of the mother of Justice L. Q. C. amar and where she died. Eleven years ago Mr. English purchased it from Mr. Troutin n and had cone everything in his power to i santify it and make it attractive. Mr. English will, for the present, live with his family at the Lrown house.

Tom Delk and His Gang Hid Some. Valuable Papers. DETECTIVE LOONEY VISITS THE SPOT

In Company With Delk, But the Paper Are Gone-A Variety of Happenings In Po ice Circles.

Detective Looney yesterday carried Tom Delk, the notorious burglar, out beyond the East Tennessee shops to find som papers that the burglar gang had hidder after stealing them. Some valuable notes and other documents were stolen from Mr. A. B. Gartrell, and Delk confessed the theft, and said that he hid the papers under a brush heap beyond the East Tennessee shops.

When the detective carried Delk out to the place where he said the papers were concealed a search failed to reveal their whereabouts. They had evidently been taken away by some one.

The Chisholm boys, the two counterfeiters, have made a confession of their guilt, which implicates Jim Lawshe, who lives near them. The confession is not a sensation, nor even a surprise, as the proof against them was conclusive, they being caught making money. A full counterfeiter's outfit and a large quantity of counterfeit money was found in their home.

That part of their confession implicating Jim Lawshe will be thoroughly investigated by the officials. Lawshe is well known in the city, having lived here for two years past. He served a sentence a few years ago in the Albany penitentiary for making counterfeit money. The Chisholms say that Lawshe gave them away.

Vessels to Enter.

Panama, September 17.—owing to the appearance of cholera in New York, as reported by cable advices, the closure of the Atlantic ports of Columbia against vessels arriving from infected countries has been this day extended to all vessels sailing from Atlantic ports of the United States subsequent to the 12th instant.

The Pacific mail steamship Newport which sailed from New York on the 10th inst., arrived here this morning and has been admitted. She will not sail on her homeward voyage before the 3rd proximo, as she will to take up all incoming passengers and freight from the Pacific coast. After her departure no more communication will be held with outside ports during the prevalence of the cholera. This is considered absolutely necessary, as there are no means of establishing a quarantine here. The British and French ministers have protested. The royal mail steamship Atrato, which arrived at Savinila, after the declaration had been made that her port was closed to foreign vessels was not only ordered out of port but the order was emphasized by three volleys of bullets from a file of soldiers. The shots fell short of the vessel, perhaps very fortunately for the shooters.

San Francisco, Cal., September 30.-The finish fight between Sol Smith, of Los Angeles, Cal., and George Siddons, of New York, for a $2,000 purse, before the California Athletic Club last night, was not a brilliant affair. Smith had it all his own way up to the 22d round, then there was a slight rally; but Siddons continued to take most of the blows intended for his head on his gloves, occasionally parrying or stopping with an upper cut. Smith had been doing most of the work and his blows gradually lacked steam. At the end of the fortieth round neither had any advantage. From the fortieth to the fiftieth round litt was done, and at the end of the fifty-fifth ound, not a blow having been struck since the fiftieth, the referee consulted the principals and announced that they agreed they could not finish the contest and that he vould reserve the decision until the meeting of the board of directors next Monday

Exchange.

NEW YORK, September 30.—The stock market today was as quiet as usual, but animation infused to a few stocks by buying for the account of outside speculators gave the market an active and strong appearance and in few stocks which were largely traded in substantial movements occurred. New England again assumed a commanding position in the flarket under heavy buying for no reason known to the public. Another active stock was Chicago Gas, which was sold heavily in early trading by noted firm of prokers for reasons which transpired later, in shape of announcement of receivership for toneerh, but it the meantime unusually heavy buying soom railled the stock completely. Distillers also came in for a share of new s also came in for a share of new and improved materially. Another im-feature of the day was the strength it feature of the day was the strength ited by the Richmond and West Point files, especially 5 per cents, which was ated by a new turn of affairs in matter organization, and especially by late ment of the Hollins committee and syndicate in the Georgia Central matter syndicate in the Georgia Central matter. Speyer syndicate in the Georgia Central matter. This is expected to redound to the benefit of the Richmond and West Point and it is hinted that important interests, which have heretofore acted independently of one another, have come together. Bull points on securities of the company and its tributary companies were plentiful and had considerable influence. The meeting of Coal sale agents has had the effect of making the waiting attitude on coal stocks, and white Reading was very active, especially late in the day, when had been satisfipated while the reports from Manches ter showed rather inactive markets and were reflected in the somewhat smaller spots which have been seen of late. Here the first prices were a point or so lower but in the course of the morning values began to improve, and with but very slight fluctuations, and on but a very limited business gradually advanced 1@8 points closing steady at very near the top figures of the day. Interior receipts will probably be about 48,000 to 49,000 bales, against $6,000 bales last year. The tremendous failing off is of course in part attributable to the lateness of the senson, and is hardly a fair criterion of what is still to come. Still the influence of these figures has tended to help the market notwithstanding the fact that, if we judge the crop accounts right, such as have appeared today show a slight improvement, though many of our friends claim that the weather will have no special effect in a great many parts upon the crop hereafter. However, this remains to be seen, and everything really hinges upon the developments of the next four or five weeks. We look for fluctuations, and believe that, with any kind of a stimulus, we out to do better. Still, we have had quite an advance now during the past two weeks; and, as said, it depends upon upon circumstances hereafter what prices will really do. titude on coal stocks, and white Reading was very active, especially late in the day, when efforts to get it down became marked; it was seld within range of 1 per cent all day long and closed within 1-2 per cent of its last night's price, despite the pressure brought to bear. Coalers were almost entirely neglected. The effect of application for receiver for Chicago Gas at the close of the day was a loss of 7-8 per cent with stock firm at the relly tidle various rumors about different arties beking control of New England remitted in lise of 2 5-8 for that stock. The only other important changes was in Distillers and a gain of 2 5-8 per cent for the day was scored.

Hubbard. Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, September 30—A decline of 2-64d in the Liverpool arrival market was fully anticipated in the decline in our market yesterday afternoon and New York opened steady with buyers at the closing quotations. An increase in the movement at all the southern ports, especially at Galveston, caused a slight decline, which was quickly recovered, and the market became firm at 4 points over the opening prices. The temper of the market continues to be very bullish, and a further advance is expected next week, when the comparison of the movement of the crop with the same time last year will be very greatly in favor of a higher market. In fact the feeling is so strong that the shorts have entirely withdrawn from the market, and there is probably a smaller short interest in it than for two years. As the receipts at the interior towns are lighter than anticipated, reaching only 48,000 bales, the market continues to gather strength, closing steady at the best prices. Another prominent short covered during the afternoon, and the feeling continued to be very bullish. Higher prices are anticipated tomorrow and next week on account of the light receipts combined with a general disposition to buy cotton, not only by the trade but by outside parties. A line of cotton was sold at the basis of 7.90 to one of the prominent Germann merchants, who resoid purchases before the close of the market. Interior stocks show a natural increase due at this senson of the year. The demand from the continental spinners has as yet been light, but the trade expects the advance, accompanied as it is with light receipts, will soon bring them in as buyers. A few sales were made after the close at inside prices.

CHICAGO, September 30—The market appears to be broadening out and the number of large speculators who have been interesting the market was to be a support of the resident the market was the early part of the session the market wa quite firm and sdvanced about 5-8c from yesterday's close. Around 76 1-2c seiling orders were quite large, principally from holders who were glad to sell out on a slight holders who were glad to sell out on a slight reaction. This, together with the receipts and the prospects that the accumulation from Saturday to Monday would be on the market encouraged some pretty liberal short selling, causing a weak close at about 3-4c below the highest. Reports from India con-tinue to be unfavorable, also from Spain. English markets, however, like our own, are clogged with liberal farmers' deliveries.

Corn was quite strong during the early part of the session, due to large buying by shorts. As soon as they were out of the market it became very weak and declined from 1-2@1c per busbel, the latter being for October delivery. The indications are that the decline will check farmers' deliveries somewhat, but there is already so much on the way and in the store houses along the reads that receipts. store houses along the roads that receipts must continue very large for some time to

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
Atlanta, Ga., July, 25, 1892.
Whereas, The General Assembly of 1891 passed the following four (4) Acts to amend the Constitution of the State, to-wit:
TO PROVIDE FOR ANNUAL SESSIONS OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.
No. 766.
An Act to alter and amend article 2, section 4, paragraph 3 of the Constitution of 1877, by striking out the word "biennially," in the third line, after the word "annually," and the mainer of submitting the same for ratification, and for other purposes.
Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Georgia, and it is hereby enacted by authority of the same. That from and after the passage of this Act that article 2, section 4, paragraph 3 of the Constitution of 1877 be altered and amended by striking out the word
"blemially" after the word "and" and before the word "thereafter," in the third line, and substituting therefor the word "annually," so that the first clause of said paragraph, when amended, will read as follows, viz: "The first meeting of the General Assembly, after the ratification of this Constitution, shall be on the fourth Wednesday in October, 1878, and annually thereafter on the same day until the day shall be changed by law.
Sec. 2. Be it further enacted, That if this amendment shall be agreed to by two-thirds of the members elected to each of the two houses, the same shall be entered on their Journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and the Governor shall cause said amendment to be published in one or more newspapers in each congressional district for two months previous to the next general election, and the same shall be entered on their
Journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and the Governor shall cause said amendment to be published in one or more newspapers in each congressional district for two months previous to the next general election,
and the same shall be entered on their Journals, with the yeas and nays taken thereors qualified to vote for members of the General Assembly, voting, shall vote in favor of

REASON RETURNS TO HIM.

He Pleads for Weaverism, and Talks Length About Some Alleged Errors of Democracy.

Mr. Iverson L. Harris, a member of one of the oldest and most stanch democratic families in Georgia, has created the sensation. s

In this morning's Macon Telegraph Mr. In this morning a Macon Telegraph, Iverson L. Harris, of Macon, who has lately gone over to the third party, has a two column letter on the political situation.

Mr. Harris states at the outset that he driven to write by a sense of duty-a duty devolving on every one—which is to advance so far as in his power the "proper," "just" and "true" settlement of all public questions.

Mr. Harris asks his readers in simple ustice to admit that the third party peo-ple are citizens, peers before the law, and that they are perfectly honest in their

But Mr. Harris himself will not admit much for the democratic party for his etter is written, he says, for the purpose that "many democratic ders and most of the democratic press either ignorant, insincere or lacking in

In sustaining his first charge—ignorance—Mr. Harris says the democratic press and leaders charge the people's party with being no other than republicans and then goes on to say that in the west the people's party is fighting republicanism.

party is fighting republicanism.

"If then," says Mr. Harris, "the press and leaders are honest, are they not ignorant? Is not the first proposition proven?"

The second charge, that of insincerity, is sustained by the assertion that the democratic leaders try to win back the third party voter or wavening democrat, with honesed

The second charge, that of insincerity, is sustained by the assertion that the democratic leaders try to win back the third party voter or wavering democrat with honeyed words and soft speeches about lost sheep or prodigal sons, and that in the next breath they villify, insult and ridicule both the leaders of the people and the people."

Mr. Harris must admit that there is something very fillogical and something very wrong in his proofs. Perhaps thinking democrats who, thank God, are yet the people—the third party—will account for the lapse when Cleveland is returned as president of the United States by the command of an overwhelming majority of the people and when Georgia sends back to his seat her present honored chief executive by a popular vote and a majority of 50,000 over any other candidate—in dispite "the people" of whom Mr. Harris speaks.

Mr. Harris admits that his third proposition, that democrats are not patriots, is harder to prove than the others, but the attempts to prove it by saying that a democrats stir up strong feelings resulting in hate between equals and brothers, and that such a couse is not patriotism.

In support of what Mr. Harris admits are "theories advanced," he brings up the specific instances and charges.

First, he eulogises Mr. Thomas E. Watson, because Mr. Watson "professes love for, and interest in not Georgians alone or southerners, but for the great struggling, stricken masses everywhere."

Mr. Harris says that where the third party speakers have appeared, they have "msulted and howled at," while the democrate speakers, and he ites Black as an instance, have been received with "polite treatment and "refect attention."

Then," he hasks "who are the hoodlums and who are the gentleme."

And next Mr. Harris says that General Weaver did not villify the south.

The most remarkable paragraph in Mr. Harris's letter is given here in full. It is worthy of consideration and is a good sample of the logic, and the fairness contained in the whole letter. "We voted for General Blair," says ed Horace Greely, than whom there has never been one who could in the ink dip his pen and more venom draw. We gave without a thought our franchises free to General Hancock, Mr. Ingalls, the greatest and most modern hater of them all, was treated with respect; General Sherman, the man who described our house was lighted. treated with respect; General Sherman, the man who despoiled our homes, was lionized and feted. Many northen men have been among us and were always treated well. Mrs. Least was listened to but a short while since and we gave her much applause. General Field, a one-limbed confederate soldier, was forced to ask protection of the mayor of Cordele in this state. Mr. Watson has been kowled down more than once. Therefore, I see it plain; the true motive lurking behind the many false and grimy masks the press and leaders wear, is intolerance of any but orthodox democratic views."

Mr. Harris next speaks of the treatment of Geenral Weaver on his recent visit to Macon. Mr. Harris says:

"It is not pleasant to be too specific, but a sense of duty leads me on. Observe the Constitution on General Weaver's trip. This paper is mentioned, as it makes the unfairest report in its columns and treats General Weaver more shamefully on the editorial page than any other I have seen. This sheet is the leading southern journal, edited and owned by men of heart and men of brains, yet it is so far lost in the mire of partisanship, it cannot or will not tell the facts."

of partisanship, it cannot or will not tell the facts."

Here Mr. Harris is met with a direct denial. The report of the proceedings on the night that General Weaver spoke in Macon was absolutely fair and truthful, and the Macon correspondent of the Atlanta Constitution challenges Mr. Harris to disprove a single statement contained in that report. It was not only fair but the correspondent now affirms, what he neglected to do in that report, lest he might be accused of partisanship, and that is that General James B. Weaver made little or no effort to speak that night. He was not five minutes on the balcony and he did not speak two hundred words. The interruption was very slight until he, himself by his utterly false statement roused a larger number of people to ridicule him. James B. Weaver did not want to speak in Macon and his subsequent conduct in Atlanta showed that, recognizing the weakness of the third party in Georgia and the stupidity of its leaders, whom he—James B. Weaver himself called "mutton heads—he was anxious to get out of the state and in doing so make political capital if possible.

Mr. Harris goes on to say:

the paper (The Constitution) had deto publish the truth, it could have ed a very different tale. No one sechat impassioned crowd could have pictit so mild. Some of the facts are ollows:

ollows:
neral Weaver after sveral efforts made art, spoke about a dozen lines when the or eggs were thrown and struck Mrs.
ver, a gray-haired lady, on the head, eral Weaver then withdrew. Would
wing eggs, thinking doubtless that Gen-

No temper except good temper was displayed.

The Macon correspondent of the Constitution knows who threw one egg. Only three eggs, perfectly fresh eggs, were thrown on the hotel Lanier balcony and one out of these three was thrown at Hon. R. W. Patterson, a democratic speaker who was trying to stop the guying of the crowd.

The boy who threw the egg seen by the correspondent was under sixteen years of age. Can Mr. Harris prove or does he know ho three the other two eggs one of which was thrown at a third party man.

The throwing of an egg at a candidate for federal office is a crime against the statutes. Theref re it is not at all probable that Mr. Harris, unless he, too, saw the act will find out "who threw that egg."

Mr. Harris then goes on to say what the democratic meeting did—a meeting that had not adjourned when Mr. Weaver retired from the balcony and to his room. Mr. Harris quotes fom the speeches made by Hon. Dupont Guerry, and the quotation is absolutely incorrect and unfair to Mr. Guerry. The Constitution gave almost the exact words used by Mr. Guerry.

Mr. Harris is unfair in most of his statements, and chiefly unfair and ungenerous in the way he interprets the action of the Young Men's Democratic Club.

At the time their meeting adjourned, Gemeral Woaver had retired and posi-in the way he interprets the action of the Young Men's Democratic Club.

At the time their meeting adjourned, General Weaver half retired and positively declined to speak, and waen the democrats marched down the street, headed by their band which played the dear old air of "Dixie," no speaker occupied the third party rostrum nor had any speaker except a democrat and a nominee for the legislature, occupied the speakers' stand, for more than ten or fifteen minutes past. Nor did any third party speaker occupy that stand after Weaver although by a poll of the gathering, every one with perhaps half a dozen exceptions signified their desire to hear and their willingness to give a respectful hearing.

The Constitution's report of the Weaver meeting in Macon, was as nearly correct as any report of any public meeting, political or otherwise eer wyns. It was indeed far more correct and fair than is the review of the proceedings as contained in Mr. Harris's letter, and the people of Macon are justly surprised that such a letter should have been written by Mr. Iverson L. Harris.

And they doubt if Mr. Ilarris has achieved the object of his letter which was to reach a "proper, just and true settlement of a public question."

Judge Andy Calhoun gave him a change of scene, a change of diet, and a change of management. He has placed in Gip's grasp a splendid opportunity to learn a very useful occupation, that of working on the streets. An enterprising and apt youth like Gip will soon master the art.

Yesterday afternoon Gip South, Clem Goodman and Charley Bailey were carried before Recorder Calhoun for trial.

The cases made out against the three youngsters were pretty strong ones. youngsters were pretty strong ones.

Buchanan stepped forward from another side.

The charge on the police docket against Mr. Reinhardt "was obstructing a natural drain," and it was preferred by Health Othicer Buchanan.

Mr. Reinhardt plead not guilty to the charge against him. He said he was not responsible for the obstruction; that Mr. Cahn who owned the injured lot was the responsible party.

Some words passed between Mr. Reina hardt and Mr. Buchanan about serving the copy of charges.

Mr. Reinhardt said he would fight the case to the bitts? end if it was uecided against him. Recorder Calhoun said that if Mr. Reinhardt was in error he must answer for it. There seemed to be some doubt about who was to blame for the obstruction, and Recorder Calhoun decided to leave the matter until a rain, which would determine who was the responsible party. If the rain says that Mr. Reinhardt is guilty he will be fined.

HE WANTS HIS BOY. Mr. J. A. Maddox Sues for the Recovery of

His Child. Mr. J. E. Robinson, as attorney for J. A. Maddox, filed an important suit yesterday morning in the office of Ordinary Cahoun. The object of the suit was to recover the possession of a child that is now in the custody of his wife, Rachel P. Maddox. The amount of the little fellow who figures as the "apple of discord" is Harrison Columbus Maddox, a sprightly young boy of scarcely a dozen summers.

CHANGES TO-DAY.

The East Tennessee Arranges Some Title Anew for Unknown Reasons.

Many changes take effect today is rail-road circles. It was reported has night that the East Tennessee, Virging and Georgia has abolished the positions of Georgia has abolished the positions of assistant general passenger agents and that the three officials of that title will be designated as division passenger agents. Just what there is in this report could not be learned last night. There is some ground for it, however. But why the change in titles was considered is a mystery.

change in titles was considered is a mystery.

The Newport News and Mississippi Valley abolishes the position of general freight agent, letting out Ben F. Mitchell, a competent man. W. H. Prouty, general passenger agent of the same road goes out and is succeeded by Tom Lynch, formerly of the Cotton Belt at St. Louis.

Sam D. Hatch, w.to has been district passenger agent of the Cotton Belt at Louisville goes to St. Louis as chief assistant to General Passenger Agent LeBeaume.

A special meeting of the council committee will be held at 10 o'cl_ck today to consider the proposition of the incorporators. No financial aid will be asked from The South Carolina's Future.

Augusta revives the story that the Louisville and Nashville wants the South Carolina road. The South Carolina is to be sold in November.

Judge Faulkner, of the Louisville and Nashville's general counsel, was in Augusta a few days ago and it was supposed that the visit there had some connection with the purchase of the Carolina. It is more likely, though, that it was a matter altogether different that he visited Argusta about.

We would like to call the attention of the public to something good in a more substantial line. Vegetables and fruits are getting scarce but there are so many new and fresh goods coming in that their place can easily be filled.

We mention a few of the good things ordinarily used which we have just received. What would be nicer for breakfast than any of these.

Our new crop Rolled Oats, Cracked Wheat or Parched Farinose will make a healthy and palatable breakfast dish, Ferris's Boneless Breakfast Bacon is always nice and our New Catch No. 1 Mackerel are enjoyed by all who try them. A Welch "Rare-bit," made from our famous York white Cream Cheese is of itself a feast of good things, and then a cup of our famout Rijamo Coffee, without which no breakfast would be complete.

For Dinner—Terrapine or Green Turtle Soup is an appetizing beginning. A Ferris or Dove Ham boiled whole will eat well. Our Devilled Crabs also make an attractive and popular dish. Then Hoyt's fine French Peas, Imported Maccaroni and Head Rice are enjoyed by all. The French and Spanish Queen Olives, Cross & Bros's Chow-Chow Pickles, Sweet Pickle Peaches (we have the home-made) are the best table relishes that can be served. For desserts ish Queen Olives, Cross & Bros. s. Chow-Chow Pickles, Sweet Pickle Peaches (we have the home-made) are the best table relishes that can be served. For desserts our California White Cherries with cream or our Slicéed Pineapple cannot be improved on except by serving with them some fine, fresh and crisp Vanilla Wafers.

For sauces you can choose from a varied list. There is Celery Sauce, S. & B. Worcester Sauce, Chile Sauce, Hotspur Relish, Tomato Catsup and Mayonnaise Dressing. For Supper-Fresh hot rolls, white and light, like they can be made only from Regal Pat Flour are unexcelled. In light meats there are Chipped Beef, Lunch Tongue, Canned Shrimps (very fine), French Sardines, Salmon Salad and many other. Our Home-made Blackberry Jam and Raspberry and Strawberry Preserves are absolutely pure and have all the home-made flavor, which is liked so well and will please the most fastidious. The new crop New Orleans Syrup (the best of all syrup), is just in season. Our Talo Tea is clear, fragrant and dilicious.

ES AND GENTS

This morning or tomorrow morning Lou McManaman will be sent to the Home of the Good Shepherd, a Catholic convent at Brooklyn, N. Y., by her father, and the wayward girl's history in Atlanta will be at an end

She says she will never come back to Atlanta. She will remain in the home five years, and will afterwards engage in charity work, trying to do penance for the multitude of sins committed in the short period of five months, which covers her whole down-

It is but rarely that such characters as Lou McManaman are found in real life. Gifted with superior intellect, beauty, a tender heart, quickly touched, she is a young girl that can offer no excuse for her errors. She was given a good education by her father, who is employed by the Western and Atlantic road. Two years ago she learned telegraphy in the Western Union office here, and worked for several months at Madison as operator. She drew a fairly good salary and was highly respected. But the influences of evil began to work upon her and she gave up her position and came back to Atlanta. A few weeks after her return here she was sent to the Home of the Good Shenward in Parklet of the Good Shepherd in Brooklyn, where she remained six months. At the home the reckless, wayward girl was as obedient as a child, and was the most popular inmate of the home. The sisters found her a quick, apt pupil and trusted her implicitly. After six months she was allowed to return

"I thought," said she, sorrowfully, "tha I could come back home and things would

I could come back home and things would be like they had always been. But they were different. People seemed to look down on me. It made me reckless, and I got mad with father. Then I left home and no girl ever went to the bad at a harder pace than I."

Up to the time that she was arrested masquerading in male attire she did not speak to her father after leaving home. Then he heard of her predicament, and forgetting the past, forgetting everything but that she was his daughter, he went to her rescue. The dey barriers that had grown up between father and child were melted away, and the girl tearfully promised to go home if the case against her was dismissed.

go home if the case against her was dismissed.

For two weeks the girl has been at her father's home trying to lead a better life. In The Journal and Herald her name was coupled with the escapade of Charley Chisholm on Wednesday night. The girl was at home and bees that she be set right.

"I have been a bad girl," she said, "the truth is bad enough, and why do they try to paint me blacker than I am?

"I want to thank The Constitution for the kind way it treated me. f kind words had been spoken to me sooner I might have been different. But there wer'n't any kind words for a ruined girl like me, and I began to think the whole world was against me, and I didn't care any more what happened. In five months I sank very low, indeed. But in all my reckless career I never quite forgot mother and home.

"It pained me so much when my real name get in the papers. I have some little sisters, and I wanted it suppressed on their account."

The girl wrote to Sister Mary Peter, at sisters, and I wanted it suppressed on their account."

The girl wrote to Sister Mary Peter, at the home in Brooklyn two weeks ago and has received a very touching letter in reply. The sister writes:

"Oh, especially was I glad to receive your letter when it contained such good news—that of your coming back. How many and fervent were the prayers I said for you that our good and merciful Father would lead you back. Do you remember the eve of your first communion? How imploringly I begged you to be good and faithful to the God of love you were about to receive. I am sure in your calm moments it all comes back with grief and sorrow enough.

* * We who are His unworthy instruments will try to smooth the enough. We who are His unworthy instruments will try to smooth the path and heal the womds a wicked world has inflicted upon the erring one."

Chief of Police Connolly asks that the statement that he had taken charge of the girl and would send her to the home, as printed in The Journal, be denied. The kirl has never appealed to him and he knows nothing of sending her to Brooklyn. She is to be sent by her father.
